
I would like more price options for Club

Posted by Philthyone - 2008/04/22 05:07

I LOVE your templates. However Your price for membership is outrageous. Having the 1 year for the price you offer is good, but we need more options. Like 3 months 6 month and personal 1 year. The pricing structure for most other clubs is similar to this. Not to mention their prices are a bit more reasonable. Considering the number of templates you offer, your price is too high at the moment.

It is very pleasing to hear that you like our templates so much.

But, I don't agree that the price is outrageous. In fact I think it is much cheaper because we offer unlimited domains. Our subscription plan is equivalent to the developer plans from other major clubs.

We understand that the price structure is not similar to the other clubs, but this will change very soon. There will adjustments to the structure of the licenses and the prices. Customers who own the current subscription plan will be very privileged when theses adjustments take place.

Hi I'm looking to buy a single template Ingeno - April 2008. How much would that cost in U.S. dollars. I just need it for my website I'm not a developer plus I can't afford the about $230.00 to join right now.

A single template costs 35 euros. This is about $55, depending on the current PayPal exchange rate.

The automated services from BonuStore are currently disabled. A new system will be online in a few weeks, but until then you can contact us at sales@bonusthemes.com to issue you a PayPal invoice and then email you the template.

Do you offer upgrade?

well Single domain license is a little bit (about 18U$USD) higher than market range.

I hope you offer upgrade because at this moment I only need one template but if you offer this I try to concentrate on your template for my client so in future I can afford to buy full license. Do you offer upgrade?

Best regards

The price for a single license hasn't changed at all since it was introduced. USD has changed.

At the moment we do not offer upgrades, but we offer discounts. If you buy a single license now and you want to buy a subscription within a week the price is discounted by the amount of the single licenses you bought.

But the discounts diminish by time and they are eliminated within a year. For example, if you buy a single license for 35 euros and the next day you want a subscription, the subscription will cost you 150 - 35.

If you buy a single license now and you want a subscription in the next 6 months, the discount will be half of its original value, so it will cost you 150 - 17.

This is the discount method for the moment. In a very short time the entire subscription and price structure will change, so expect all the above to change as well.

A new system will be online in a few weeks

How much is your "few weeks"? :dry:

Any news about the new membership plans, please?:)

Thanks.

There is a new system with a brand new interface coming. It is being tested at the moment but it will not be released until it is ready. Its purpose is to make your life easier in the club. If it contains bugs, it will create problems instead of solving them.

Our priorities have the monthly templates first, all the rest are second. We are more eager to see it published than you! Believe me :) But we won't release it until we are sure it is mature and will work the way you guys need it to work.

For what is worth, its release will have two stages. On the first stage we will publish it but keep the current payment structure. On the second stage we will finally introduce the new subscription plans and a few other goodies we have in mind.
